On one hand, this book is incredibly instructive on how to make flower arrangements, which is helpful if you are a beginner like me. It goes through the different vases, equipment, types of greenery, etc. you can use in your arrangement. And it has step-by-step directions for some of the arrangements wherein each step includes a photo, which again, is incredibly helpful. I've already marked certain pages as great guides going forward. On the other hand, the actual arrangements shown in this book are outdated, and not my style at all. Given that this book was published fairly recently, I'm kind of surprised. All in all, a good book for beginners, especially if you have other sources of beautiful arrangements you'd like to duplicate (e.g., Pinterest) but just need a guide as to HOW to do that. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. I chose 3 books on flower arranging and this is one of them - gorgeous pictures and directions. Great reference for my new floral/wedding business: "Special Events by Design". The 3 books were a gift and I used my gift card - made for a very Happy Birthday !

From School Library Journal Grade 3-6-- Full of bright, colorful photos and illustrations, this book provides an apt, anecdotal snapshot of the variety and function of flowers. A handbook-sized volume with topical organization, it will entice and invite youngsters to see the beauty around them. Diversity and adaptation are front and center. In the beginning dual-page introduction, readers are told to draw, examine, and dissect flowers to gain a true understanding. Double-page treatments are devoted to discussions of color, pollen, or specific environments, to name a few. This is not a coherent well-developed study of the subject, but rather a progression of little "tastes" that presumably will create an appetite for later learning or provide the hook for more real research. It's a browser's feast, with little detail and no depth. The lack of further reading, however, is a major drawback for a book that seems to stake its success on being a vivid signpost at the beginning of the road. --Steve Matthews, Foxcroft School, Middleburg, VA Copyright 1993 Reed Business Information, Inc.
